TAREA 1

Speaker 0:

My friendliness. I always try to be positive and polite and friendly to people who I meet, especially the first time and I try to continue that but regardless of who they are I try to give them, you know, treat them friendly. I enjoy being friendly, so it's not really work to me. It's just part of my personality.

Speaker 1:

I absolutely never cook. I used to cook when I was in university, but I never got very far with it. It was boring, and I have a microwave and a kettle in my apartment and that's it, and I would never cook for another person.

Speaker 2:

(...) to work at the United Nations. I would like to work there because I could work in a very multi-cultural environment and I would be allowed to travel a lot and experience many different types of countries and lifestyles.

Speaker 3:

When I was fifteen, I had a job at McDonald's flipping burgers, doing fries, cooking, not taking orders. I enjoyed it for awhile, about two or three months, but then I started losing interest in it, and after six months, I quit the job, but it was a good job for a fifteen year old.

Speaker 4:

Well, I usually wake up, maybe 5 or 6 in the morning, but I don't get up straight away. I stay in bed for awhile and get used to the idea that the day is starting, maybe read a book or something, check my phone messages, and I get up at maybe 7:30, 8. If it's a day off, I get up at nine or ten

Speaker 5:

Well, I would get up early so that I could make the most of the day and I wouldn't be tired and then I would probably go for a run and then have a yummy breakfast, and maybe meet my friends and go shopping and go out for lunch and then maybe go to the gym or something and then finish the evening by going out with friends, maybe going to the cinema and then going out for some drinks.

TAREA 2

School was finished and Mark had four cigarettes in his pocket. Other boys drank beer, and some tried drugs, but Mark just liked cigarettes. Now his little brother Ricky wanted his first smoke, and Mark felt terrible.

The boys walked down a narrow path into the trees behind their home. Home was a trailer in a trailer park in Memphis, Tennessee. Mom wasn't back from work yet. Dad wasn't there either. Mom left him five years ago because he was always drunk and often violent. He taught Ricky to play football, to ride a bike, and everything he knew about sex, but he didn't want to teach him to smoke.

'Sit there,' said Mark, when they reached his secret hiding place. 'And let's hear the rules again.'

Ricky knew them both. 'If I tell anyone, you'll hit me.'

'That's right.'

'And I can smoke only one a day.'

'That's right. If I catch you smoking more, or if you start drinking beer....'

'You'll hit me harder.'

'Right,' said Mark. 'Now watch me. It's really easy.'

Ricky was soon busy blowing smoke like a man. Mark sat next to him and lit other cigarettes.

'I was nine when I started,' he said. 'You're only eight. You're too young.'

Ricky didn't answer. He was listening to something. Then Mark heard it too, and they stopped smoking. 'Just sit still,' Mark said softly.
