Hello my dear friend,

I am contacting you because I'm really concerned about an issue that is keeping me awake at night.

The thing is that I am convinced that my personal information has been compromised in a data breach. I can't say for sure how, but I guess my email login was somehow accessed and through that they managed to reach my bank details and were then able to make online purchases.

I know something of the kind happened to you very recently and I would appreciate it if you could give me some advice.

Kind regards,

Your friend

Write your reply (150-200 words) and advise him/her on this issue the best you can. Include possible steps to recover from identity theft.

The researchers suggested that having too much time on your hands could decrease happiness, too."*
