The magazine New People has invited its readers to send in a piece on the impact of sexism in the entertainment industry. Write out an opinion essay setting out your views on the topic in a critical tone.

This is part of an article published by the magazine in its last issue:

More and more women in the entertainment industry are opening up about the misogyny they face every day. And as some of the most sought-after talents in Hollywood come forward with tales of bias and chauvinism, it is clearer than ever that sexist attitudes are the norm in the industry.

A newspaper has asked its readers to contribute to an article called Binge-watching: hazardous for our health?

Binge-watching, otherwise known as the act of streaming many television episodes in one sitting, is more common and doable than ever. New and buzzy series are constantly added to Netflix, Hulu, etc.

Though that might sound glorious to TV fans, it's a bit worrisome to health experts across the country. With so much content available, and so much screen time becoming the norm — replacing hours devoted to fitness, socializing and sleeping — the potential health implications of binge-watching are becoming more obvious.
