No regulation on private trees has been enforced in this town ever before. Nonetheless, the Land Commission has started addressing the issue of designing policies applicable to trees in private properties. The debate arose last spring when one neighbour complained about unpruned branches from an adjacent property. All things considered, the Mayor is finding it hard to legislate on whether maintenance and tree conservation should be controlled by this town authorities as well as if some invasive tree species are to be banned from planting in private properties in order to protect native biodiversity. Therefore, he invites everyone who wants to have a saying, to submit an email to his secretary.

Write an email to your town mayor explaining where you stand on this matter, whether you consider that certain species of trees should be banned and whether you deem it appropriate for the town hall to pass and regulate laws which affect private properties.
